Landfill Must Close Solid Waste Bill May Aid County

State Senator John Kuhl of Hammondsport is hoping a bill he's proposing will prevent the type of waste disposal dilemma facing Steuben County.

County officials are scurrying to find an alternate landfill by spring in the wake of an order from the state Department of Environmental Conservation to close the Bath Landfill.

The DEC rejected a requested increase in the capacity of the landfill because of low-level contamination at the site. Without the county dump in use, trash removal costs for residents could triple.

While Kuhl's legislation would take effect too late to help the county, the bill is designed to provide more help—technical and financial—from the state on solid waste management problems.

"The impetus of the bill is to provide state leadership to allow communities to do what they want to do," Kuhl said. "This truly is an assistance bill."

The lawmaker said state agencies like the DEC should "not be frustrators but catalysts" in helping towns, cities and counties resolve solid waste management problems.

The bill would establish a grant program for up to 50 percent of the cost of new municipal solid waste facilities. It also would fund modifications to existing landfills that are required because of new regulations.

The legislation also would make the state responsible for solid waste management in communities faced with unmanageable problems or where the state has failed to provide needed assistance.

Also proposed in the bill is the formation of a state technical assistance program and reforms in how regulatory agencies implement new regulations.

Kuhl said the dilemma faced by Steuben County officials is not unique to the state, which buries up to 80 percent of its trash in landfills.

About 80 percent of New York's 311 landfills are under orders to close, and 137 are expected to be ordered closed in the near future, leaving only 94 in operation.

"It's one of those issues I think everyone in the state was hoping would solve itself," he said. "But obviously, it won't."

Kuhl predicted the legislation will be presented early in the next session, which begins Jan. 11, and will "gradually work its way through" both houses of the legislature.

"It won't even be in place before the deadline is reached" on the closing of the Bath Landfill, he said. "It's a couple of years away from implementation."

The DEC lists June 1 as the closing date.

New Year Activity Planned at Church

At the ministry meeting Saturday afternoon in the Wayland Seventh-day Adventist Church, plans were made for 1988 in the area of nurture of members, care of the physical church plant, and outreach to help others.

In the nurturing department it was resolved to keep the services varied and interesting, to hold seminars concerning spiritual gifts and challenging each member to use his talents.

The construction of a building to house lawn mower, ladders and tools was completed in 1987, plus redecorating the recreation room and cradle roll room. Each phase of this work has been done only as funds were available. No debt has been incurred. Money is now available to put the finishing touches on the room for the small children. A work bee is scheduled for Sunday, 10 a.m. to noon.

For community outreach, a seminar on natural remedies and a Breathe-Free Clinic are in the planning stage.

Family Fellowship evening will be in the Schneider home Jan. 13 at 7 p.m.

TIERRA DEL FUEGO

Tierra del Fuego is the largest (18,800 square miles) island in the archipelago of the same name at the southern tip of South America. It is an area of majestic mountains, tortuous channels and high winds. It was discovered in 1520 by Magellan and named Land of Fire because of its many Indian bonfires. Part of the island is in Chile, part in Argentina.

BARRY O. HAYWOOD
Lions Governor
To Visit Wayland

District Governor Barry O. Haywood of Dansville will make his official visit to the Wayland Lions Club this evening at a meeting in Ann Finn's Restaurant.

Haywood took his oath of office with 100 other district governors from around the world at the 70th annual international convention in Taipei, Taiwan, last July. The organization has more than one million members worldwide.

Along with supporting many international projects, Lions in District 20-E1 directed by Haywood, support many statewide, regional and local service projects. Included are Empire State Speech and Hearing Clinic, sight and life conservation, diabetes detection and prevents programs.

The Lions theme "We Serve" is shared by more than 2,000 members in the 45 clubs of District 20-E1 which includes all or part of Monroe, Orleans, Wayne, Genesee, Livingston, Wyoming, Allegany and Steuben counties.

Haywood joined the Dansville club in 1970, held many offices and was president in the 1978-79 year. On the district level, he has served as zone chairman and was deputy district governor from 1984 to 1987.

Happy birthday greetings to Francis Recktenwald on the eighth; Rick Averill and Ron McKee on the 10th; Alan Reynolds on the 11th; and Susanne Thielges and Raymond Hughes on the 14th. Ray will be 83 and still is spry as a young man.

The holiday festivities are almost over. They have been completely over for some households when you see discarded Christmas trees being taken to the dump on Dec. 26. The children at Sacred Heart Church will be swinging their sticks trying to break the pinatas to retrieve the treats contained within. These activities will take place after the 10:30 Mass Sunday. This follows along with the Mexican theme of their Christmas Eve celebration.

St. Joseph's School children had an additional holiday Monday in honor of Bishop Clark's 25th anniversary to the priesthood.

Magdalen Malter's house was a buzz of activity Thursday as her daughters prepared the food for the next day's annual New Year's Day family celebration. This year the theme was Mexican. Most of them arrived in authentic Mexican costumes to be greeted by a huge sign "South of the Border," Mexican music playing and the aroma of spanish rice, chili, tacos and anchilados. Dessert was Mexican sundaes. The children has fun breaking the pinata, dancing the hat dance and watching a bull fight. Naturally a couple of the men couldn't be teased away from the football game on television. Oh well, each to his own enjoyment.

Barbara Jerome, Dorothy and Diane Robinson and myself enjoyed the Festival of Lights at Niagara Falls last Sunday. There was no snow on the ground when we arrived and no ice in the river but the displays of lights and animation were beautiful. We've been fortunate to view it both ways. A couple of years ago we saw it with snow reflecting the lights and solid ice formations around the falls, and it's spectacular either way.

Winter has arrived in all its fury. Many of us were hoping to get through January and February without much snow.

Did you make New Year's resolutions? Was one of them to quit smoking? You may need help. Join the No Smoking Clinic scheduled at Stermer Hall in Cohocton beginning Monday, Jan. 25, at 7 p.m. There will be three sessions in all lasting one and a half hours each night. The other two meetings are Feb. 8 and Feb. 22. Pre-registration is required, call 384-5500. It may be the most important call you'll make in 1988.
